

is one other to be considered besides him and his mate. A little life, an innocent little child and our orphan institutions are filled with these little ones. This phase is the saddest part of such a transaction.

If you have had a good father and a good mother your heart must ache for the child to be robbed of one or both parents.

If you have no money to marry then you have none to care for a little child and how can the mother earn her living and take care of the child?

Then the woman should prevent childbirth? Abortions. Again must the woman suffer.

One abortion injures a woman more than five births. In fact, physicians declare that each child born to a healthy woman adds ten years to her life.

I know economic conditions are not right for young people and it will be a struggle for many if they marry, and with some it is impossible. But two wrongs never made a right! Let every young man and young woman set to work to find the cause of our economic conditions and then seek to redress these wrongs. They will find more happiness in life than adding to its already untold miseries.

When you find persons given to study and not forgetting recreation and exercise they are not as likely to yield to their emotions. I do not only mean those who attend colleges, for many go who do not go there for study.

I know every one cannot be alike, but there are very few in the world who cannot take up some line of study or activity that will give them interest and pleasure until such time as they can marry and have a home and family, even if it be humble. "There is no place like home."—Mrs. J.

WANTS INFORMATION.—I was very much interested in the article contained in The Forum in the issue of June 30, "Concerning Churches," written by Mr. Green, and wish that he would explain the manner in which the friars in the Philippines conducted themselves so that it was necessary for this government to make an investigation as to their activities. What persons conducted the investigation and can a copy of senate document No. 190 be secured or purchased.—R. E. A.

BILLY SUNDAY.—In the July 1 issue a convert of B. Sunday wrote "Long live B. Sunday and let him keep on collecting and doing good." Indeed he is "doing good." He collects from the poor, hypnotized working people and does good for the rich. He is a good tool to keep the people ignorant.

Billy Sunday preaches and damns the drunkard and criminal. Why doesn't he preach to resist the cause of the two?

Billy Sunday preaches a heaven, hell and devil somewhere in the cosmos. I think we have enough hell and a good many devils on this earth. Why doesn't he preach for heaven right here?

The world is tired of the 2,000-year-old theology that he preaches. What this world wants is reason and knowledge. With these two you can resist the social injustice and diminish crime.—M. W.

SOME EXPOSES.—Among the most interesting things in Chicago are the exposes of one thing or another so regularly conducted by the Chicago Daily Tribune.

You must give the above mentioned publication great credit. In each and every one of their famous exposes they have successfully exposed the Chicago Daily Tribune.—A. J. Sampson, 3152 Calumet Av.

Lloyds of London have recently issued a form of insurance against appendicitis. The claims have become so numerous that they have found it necessary to double their premiums.
